

613 LOCUST STREET

Built of brick, this house is an elaborate example of turn of the 20th century architecture. The main portion of the house is basically a rectangular block with a tall hip roof and ballustraded widow's walk. Across the front is a one story porch supported by Doric columns. Above this is a small second story porch with a gable above. Ornamenting the gable of this porch is a Palladian window. The house and grounds are well maintained and enclosed by an iron fence with finials.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a large early 20th century brick house of two and one half stories. The main portion of the house is a rectangular block with a hip roof that rises to a ballustrated flat peak. Behind this portion is a large wing on the rear. Across the front and part of the east facade is a one story porch supported by Doric columns. Between the columns is a ballustrade with turned spindles. In front of the door, on the east end, is a gabled pediment projecting in front of the porch and supported by additional Doric columns. Above this is a small second story porch with a ballustrade and gable above, with a Palladian window. Opposite this gable is a hip roofed dormer. Cornices of the roof and the porch are dentiled. On the east side of the house is a polygonal bay window. To the rear, on the east side, is a one story sun porch. The house and grounds are well maintained and are enclosed by an iron fence with finials.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This large ornate house, probably built sometime around the turn of the 20th century, is a simplified version of the Queen Anne style. It is one of the more architecturally noteworthy houses on Locust Street, which consists of many large houses of this area. It is believed to have been designed by J. Benjamin Brown.
